A Narrow Escape—Great Rammage
Sale—Pulpit Services Tomorrow—Granges, Whist and Dramas—Judge Peck and Temperance—Items.

Even in the matter of automobile accidents a miss is as good as a mile.
What might have been a very serious accident came near being a reality on Friday morning in the center of the town. A well known resident was driving his own machine, and came within an ace of running down Rev.
R. V. S. Abbott, an aged clergyman who lives on Elm street. Mr.
Abbott seemed to be uncertain which way to go, and the report is that he dodged first one way and the other.
It is averred that the auto was on the wrong side of the street, and that in order to avoid hitting Mr. Abbott it came near running into the bay scales opposite the barber shop. For a few moments the people who witnessed the narrow escape held their breaths with excitement.

It will gratify many residents to know that next Monday the season for sprinkling the streets will begin.
The rummage sale held by the ladies of the Congregational church on Friday afternoon exceeded all expectations. The amount of material sent in for the sale was very large. The ladies of the church have a large stock of clothing for both men and women which was disposed of at a very reasonable price. The long line of goods piled full of discarded hats worn by ladies, and there were shoes enough to stock a shop. The upper room was used for the display of women's garments. The furniture, bric-a-brac, pictures, etc., made a very remarkable collection. A dainty luncheon was served after 1 o'clock in the forenoon. These sales are really a godsend to many people, especially those who do not feel able during these hard times to pay full prices for clothing.

Radford B. Smith, Jr., is reported ill with tonsillitis. Dr. F. H. Smith called in on Friday to look after the case. Rev. C. S. Bullock is now in the West, looking after orders for his invention which finds increasing favor with hotel, steamship and storehouse managers. He spends a good deal of time in Buffalo, where the Donald Falken makes a portion of his headquarters. Mr. Bullock will return tomorrow the latter part of next week.
Tomorrow his pulpit will be filled by a clergyman from Yonkers.

Tomorrow morning Rev. Dr. Peck will take for his theme, "The Power of the Second Mile." In the evening his discourse will be on "The Two Dwelling Places of God."

Boys on the street are whistling Herbert Sniffin's song—
"I'm tied up to no one!
"Geel ain't I glad I'm single."

Services at Christ church on Sunday will be as follows: Holy Communion at 8 a. m.; morning prayer at 10:30.
At this service the preacher will be Rev. Frederick E. Smith. One of the thems of the Order of the Holy Cross and the head master of the Kent school for boys, Mr. E. H. Smith, the evening service will be attended, and the congregation are cordially invited to attend the closing services of the convention of the Epworth League, which drew at St. John's church, Bridgeport, at 7:30.

Tomorrow morning at the Methodist church Rev. Mr. F. H. Smith will take his theme "The Ascended Christ." The Epworth League will hold a meeting at 6:45. The topic for consideration is "The Ascended Christ." The evening service at 7:30 the hour will be given over to the celebration of the fifth anniversary of the Epworth League. The local league will have a charge. Special addresses and special music. Installation of officers by the pastor. The local league will be as follows: Hymn by the congregation; prayer; address, "The Young People to the Front," Mrs. Howard Franklin; The Modern Epworth League, "The Churches," Miss Lucinda Wakelee; violin solo, Miss Christine Shaw; address, "The Epworth League in this Movement," Miss Louise Barker; singing, sang, and Miss Burke of Trumbull gave vocal selections. Of course a very "enjoyable" time was had.
Mrs. Emily Wilcoxson of Huntington Road has recently lost a sister—Mrs. James H. Bailey, who died in Durham.

No less than five clergymen officiated at the funeral of the late Mrs. Wilson Smith. She came originally from North Carolina, and for many years was a domestic in the family of Franklin Sammis.

Among the relatives in town of the late Mrs. Mary E. Peck, who was recently killed in New York, may be named Mrs. William Freyer, Miss Ella Pier, and Mrs. Edith Rhoades.
Local ladies who won prizes at the whist given by the Azallias at the residence of Mrs. Julian Clinton were Mesdames Fuller, Edith A. Daples, Henry Meachen, Miss Hattie Darrow, and Melville J. Curtis and Andrew Graham.

At the Bethany Mission tomorrow there will be preaching by Rev. Charles C. Rutenberger, editor of the Messenger, New York. There will be both afternoon and evening services.

It is said the posts for the new cemetery gates will be 12 feet high, and several feet in diameter. This should be sufficient to keep people both in and out.

The poor Pole who committed suicide in Mr. Tamm's barn a few days ago was earning but $2 a week besides his board. As he was an old man he concluded to give up the struggle.

An attempt will be made on the evening of the 26th to organize a lodge of W. O. W.'s in this locality.

The last meeting of the Brotherhood Club was at the home of Mrs. Paul Carey.

Mr. and Mrs. James Whitfield of Boston have been visiting in town.
George Buck and family have moved to Bridgeport.

The new tailor who is to try his luck in town is a German and has a brother-in-law living at Avon Park. The tailor comes from Brooklyn for a change of climate and for a restful spot. He will find his old town quite as quiet as he can wish.

The gentlemen and ladies who took part in the dramatic entertainment at Grange hall last Thursday night, and made it the success which it proved to be were Herbert Sniffin, Mrs. Harold Holmes, Miss Edith A. Daples, Ernest Vincent, Miss Bloxson, Mrs. H.
M. Clapp, Harry Wilcoxson, Miss Ann Stuart, Miss Ruby Avery, Miss Ever-line Ferry, and William Beardsley.

The fire at the house of James Bun-nell proved to be a foul chimney burning out. A small hole was burned in the roof. It might have been worse.
This next commencement the High School will send out into the world five graduates to battle with fate and succession in the effort to earn success.
In preparation for the commencement exercises the chorus of the school is rehearsing. It will be recollected that there were no graduates last year.

Mrs. Morris J. Munne who recently died in Bridgeport, was formerly a local resident.
Temperance people in town are rejoicing over the advance of the movement to prohibit the illegal selling of liquor, and the endeavor to make the procuring of licenses more difficult.
Judge C. H. Peck, in his action in the Legislature at Hartford, has joined the forces of Father O'Connor and Rev.
Dr. Packard. Judge Peck was opposed to the proposition that it need not be necessary for prospective liquor dealers to have five endorsers who are residents of the town. "If we have own any kind of personal property, say a watch, would be qualified as endorsers. This would be making the price of the liquor dealer especially rosy."

Music on Danbury Road—A Bunch of Keys—A Neighborhood Volcano—A Real Breach of the Peace—Searching for Teachers—Peace Day.

The residents of Danbury road came in for their innings yesterday in Justice MacAlpine's court at the town hall.
A number of hardworking, industrious Germans and Germans have abiding places on this popular drive to the beach, and they form a little neighborhood by themselves. However like the Garden of Eden their little farms and back yards may be discordant harmonies, and finally on the 8th, which was Sunday morning, affairs reached a crisis and complaint was made that there had been a breach of the peace and a threat of assault. The case was John Sutmire vs. Charles Keyes, and Attorney C. H. King appeared for the prosecutor, while Mr. Keyes had Attorney Joseph I. Flint for the defense. The case was called at 3 p. m., and dragged along for several hours, one of the great questions being whether Keyes did shake his pitchfork at Sutmire, as alleged, and if he did, whether he was near enough to do harm to Sutmire by running him through with the sharp tined instrument. Another point about which there was considerable doubt was whether the witnesses told the truth, or were untruthful. Even in court it is sometimes hard to elucidate the truth after a severe cross-examination.

The story was to the effect, as narrated by the prosecution and the defense, that Mr. Keyes has the habit of coming home at all hours of the night, Saturday included, and that he lately at about 11 o'clock on the night of his place. He is a very jolly man and shouts, hollers, whistles, sings, chops wood, saws wood, bangs his barn and sheds, and plants potatoes, making a great deal of unnecessary noise, and arousing the whole neighborhood. On this particular Sunday morning it was the Board of Parolees, at their next meeting, June 7, 1909 for release from the Connecticut State Prison.
R 8 B 6 6

When Mr. Keyes took the stand he said he did not know where he was his mouth; he never shook his pitchfork at Mr. Sutmire; he was shaking out the bedding of his various beasts, and he pounded the barn to wash the horses not to kick, and he pounded the pig pen to keep the pigs quiet. It was shown that he had had trouble with many of his neighbors, and that few of them were friendly. Mr. King in summing up contended that there had been a technical assault; and he thought some of the witnesses were far from telling the truth. Mr. Flint was of the decided opinion there had been no technical assault, and he thought the charge of assault was dropped and Justice MacAlpine fined the accused costs and $1 for a breach of the peace. In delivering the judgment he said there had been a neighborhood scrap and both sides ought to have been treated alike.

There is report in town that from 8 to 10 hands have been laid off from work in one of our largest manufacturing plants.
Yesterday the Onedias played a game of baseball with the team of the Staples High School at Westport. A number of young men from this town went down to see the game.
The Wynn family has arrived at its cottage at Pine Creek.

The Wilkinson family came up from New York yesterday to their beach cottage, the "Breakers." The topic of birds was discussed in the school yesterday afternoon. The boys and later the children cleaned up the grounds and planted flowers and shrubbery. The girls at the center school said that for many years the boys and had to do most of the work.

School Supt. Henry W. Saxe of New Canaan, spent Wednesday afternoon visiting the schools. He expressed himself as delighted with all he saw and heard, and spoke very highly of the method of teaching.

J. C. Knowlton from New Haven, principal of the school in the Winchester district, spent Friday morning in town looking for teachers.

The principal of the Model School of New Haven was visiting the teachers of this town, looking for a model teacher for his school.
One of the best teachers in Fairfield is being considered for a position as a teacher in the Danbury Normal school, and the chances are she will have the place offered to her.

A teachers' meeting was held in the Pickett building yesterday when Supt.
Wheatley called attention to the fact that the annual school exhibit will take place at the Danbury Normal school on the 28th, when work from all the schools in town can be inspected, and it is hoped the public will take the opportunity to see what is being done.

Teachers are to hand in their requisitions for supplies for the coming school year by the time of the exhibit.

Peace Day will be observed in the schools on the 15th. Educators are coming to the conclusion that patriotism as taught today leaves the supposed patriot frequently faithless to his least duty, and on the other hand makes the school a place of lines of his native land and the limit of his love and sympathy. The idea of patriotism must expand and strengthen in two directions. It must help purify and defend the nation by overcoming the constant enemies that are within.

Whitely justice and good will it must prevent people from becoming occasional enemies without. The peace program will consist of hymns, readings and brief addresses.

It is the intention to have in the next town annual brief reports from all the school principals in town, giving a synopsis of their work and aims.
